

Mr Graham Newby

Having spent 10 years as the PFA/LAA CEO, I decided I had achieved the goals I had set myself and retired from the post in 2008. Since then I have been involved with various EASA working groups on a voluntary basis and am still very active, with Roger Hopkinson and others, with EFLEVA. I also work with the owners and operators of small airfields in the Airfield Owners Group to ensure their voice is heard within the CAA in order to help maintain the freedoms and access we currently enjoy into the future.

I have built two RVs in the past, and currently have a share in a Robin while I consider a future build.

Now with more time on my hands, I wish to serve on the Board of the LAA to represent the grass roots membership.
